Subject: Presentation at SPB General Counsel Roundtable

Dear Nancy,

Thank you for considering participation in a panel discussion at the SPB General Counsel Roundtable April 5-6 here in Washington. Attached is a save-the-date which will be supplemented with materials tailored to you and David Banks, along with a list of attendees in previous years so you can have a sense of the audience.

Please let me know if your schedule will accommodate (late morning on the 6th is preferred but not critical time)

Best regards,

Subject: So Sorry

Hey Nancy,

I wanted to apologize again for all the technical problems last week for your presentation during the CSPA annual meeting. I am truly sorry that it wasn't able to work out. Hopefully it didn't disrupt your day too much.

I hope all is well!

Dear Mandy and Nancy,

It was nice to see you last week at NACD's meeting with Administrator Pruitt. As a follow up, Eric Byer and I are working to collect troubling enforcement examples from our members with a goal of getting these to you this week, or early next at the latest.

In the meantime, one of our members, Brenntag, reached out to me on Friday with an immediate example from Region 4. EPA is proposing a five-figure penalty for failure to hit the certify button for one chemical when submitting a Toxic Release Inventory report. A description of the case is attached. This is a perfect example of extreme monetary penalties issued for minor administrative errors that result in no harm to the environment and of the "Find & Fine" enforcement approach we discussed. In this case, even the agency's rationale for the large penalty is flawed.

Can you assist with this? We are curious to know if Region 4 even vetted this penalty through EPA headquarters as this seems completely contrary to the approach Administrator Pruitt indicated he would like the agency to take.

Please let me know if you need any additional information. Thank you so much for your consideration.

Best regards,

Jennifer

Update: Mode of action (MOA) for liver tumors induced by oral exposure to 1,4-dioxane

Publication date: August 2017

Source: Regulatory Toxicology and Pharmacology, Volume 88

Author(s): Michael L. Dourson, Jeri Higginbotham, Jeff Crum, Heather Burleigh-Flayer, Patricia Nance, Norman

Previous work has shown that the weight of evidence supports the hypothesis that 1,4-dioxane causes liver tumors in rodents. This hypothesis has not been resolved, however. In the current work, a reanalysis of data from two chronic mouse cancer bioassays showed that the appearance of liver tumors with a high background incidence, support the conclusion that rodent liver tumors are induced by higher doses of the parent compound cause an ever increasing toxicity in the rodent liver as evidenced by increased liver toxicity. Liver toxicity can be excluded. The observed liver toxicity has a threshold in the dose scale at or below levels that saturate the liver. The liver toxicity data are supported by the non-mutagenic, metabolic saturation kinetics, and cytotoxicity-generated re-

Subject: Accepted 1,4-Dioxane Publication

Dear Colleagues

On behalf of the authors listed in the CC section of this email, it gives me great pleasure to state that a manuscript entitled "Update: Mode of Action (MOA) for Liver Tumors Induced by Oral Exposure to 1,4-Dioxane" has been accepted by Regulatory Toxicology and Pharmacology. An abstract is found below.

This work was conducted under the auspices of the Alliance for Risk Assessment (ARA), and involved multiple groups acting collaboratively. Updates of this accepted text prior to it being published will be posted on the Alliance for Risk Assessment (ARA) website, specifically, <http://allianceforrisk.org/14-dioxane-analysis>.

Please feel free to let your colleagues know as well.

Sincerely,

Abstract

Previous scientific studies show that the weight of evidence supports the hypothesis that 1,4-dioxane causes liver tumors in rodents through cytotoxicity and subsequent regenerative hyperplasia. Questions regarding a lack of concordant findings for this mode of action (MOA) in mice have not been resolved, however. In the current work, a reanalysis of data from two chronic mouse cancer bioassays on 1,4-dioxane, one 13-week mouse study, seven rat cancer bioassays, coupled with other data demonstrating negative mutagenicity, lack of up-regulated DNA repair, and the appearance of liver tumors with a high background incidence, support the conclusion that rodent liver tumors, including those in mice, are evoked by a regenerative hyperplasia MOA. The initiating event for this MOA is metabolic saturation of 1,4-dioxane. Above metabolic saturation, higher doses of the parent compound cause an ever increasing toxicity in the rodent liver as evidenced by higher blood levels of enzymes indicative of liver cell damage and associated histopathology that occurs in a dose and time related manner. Importantly, alternative modes of action can be excluded. The observed liver toxicity has a threshold in the dose scale at or below levels that saturate metabolism, and generally in the range of 9.6 to 42 mg/kg-day for rats and 57 to 66 mg/kg-day for mice. It follows that threshold approaches to the assessment of this chemical's toxicity are supported by the non-mutagenic, metabolic saturation kinetics, and cytotoxicity-generated regenerative repair information available for 1,4-dioxane promoted rodent liver tumors.

Dear Ms. Nance,

Congratulations. I am pleased to inform you that your manuscript, referenced above, has been accepted for publication in Regulatory Toxicology and Pharmacology.

Many thanks for this paper. We look forward to the submission of your future manuscripts to Regulatory Toxicology and Pharmacology.

Your accepted manuscript will now be transferred to our production department and work will begin on creation of the proof. If we need any additional information to create the proof, we will let you know. If not, you will be contacted again in the next few days with a request to approve the proof and to complete a number of online forms that are required for publication.

When your paper is published on ScienceDirect, you want to make sure it gets the attention it deserves. To help you get your message across, Elsevier has developed a new, free service called AudioSlides: brief, webcast-style presentations that are shown (publicly available) next to your published article. This format gives you the opportunity to explain your research in your own words and attract interest. You will receive an invitation email to create an AudioSlides presentation shortly. For more information and examples, please visit <http://www.elsevier.com/audioslides>.

Dear Mandy and Nancy,

Thanks again to Administrator Pruitt and both of you for meeting with the NACD Board of Directors on May 15. In response to the Administrator's request for more information, attached is a letter from Eric with NACD's recommendations on inspection and enforcement timelines and approaches. Appendix A of the letter includes several examples of enforcement delays and abuses NACD members have experienced in recent years. Please share this document with Administrator Pruitt.

We look forward to answering any questions you and the Administrator have and to continuing our discussions on these important issues.

Thank you for all of the hard work you and Administrator Pruitt are doing to create a rational regulatory environment for the business community!

Happy to reframe. I originally had a quote from the congressman who sponsored it but this seemed too inflammatory for SRA. Will look at this again tonight and will contact Kimberly White

I think the framing of the abstract is a bit biased and needs some work.
I cant and wont speak for ACC at all, but for this topic, I direct you to Kimberly White. She has testified in front of congress on these issues. Kimberly.White@americanchemistry.com.

If I have more time this week I will noodle the abstract but it's a bit of a busy time here.

Hi Nancy

Great to hear!!

Attached is what I've written so far, and some of the directions from the SRA web site. I'm about to run out for most of the rest of the afternoon. I'd like to get this out of the way as soon as reasonably possible as am at meetings at Dow most of next week.

No abstract would be needed from you so there is nothing written with your name on it that would have to go through the EPA process, at least as I understood it many, many years ago. (As the proposer, I would be the only one with my name on the proposed abstract, but would welcome your input and that of the other panelists on the proposal).

I'm envisioning the 3 or 4 panelists for the Roundtable would have about 15 min each for presentation and the rest of the 90 minutes would be for a facilitated discussion led by the moderator

I'm thinking of asking Granger Morgan or Terry Yosie to be the moderator, but your suggestion for moderator or for another panelist who supports the ACC position on the SAB Act would be very much appreciated.

Best regards

Bernie

Hi Bernie,

Got your message and am happy to consider the request. Can you send me all the information on the proposal (abstract, goals, participants, etc)?

I will have to find out if I have to run this through a clearance process—not sure how that works yet and if those procedures apply to me.

Thanks,
Nancy

Dear Dr. Goldstein:

Thank you for your voicemail earlier today. I have had an opportunity to follow-up with Rick (cc'd on this email) and I understand you have a commitment from EPA to participate. Given the confirmation of EPA's participation, we will also confirm ACC's participation. Could you send me the proposed abstract or session description? Also it would be helpful to know of any additional information you need from ACC for the session and any deadlines.

Nancy,

Thank you for taking the time to meet with us earlier this week.

We are very happy with the overall direction of EPA and very impressed with your understanding of our issues and the steps you have already taken to help resolve our concerns.

Our main concern was explaining to you how unique the specialty chemical industry is and precisely why we need a seat at the table. We are a very excited to participate in groups like the Sector Strategy group and be partners with EPA.

We were very pleased to hear about the plans to eliminate the TSCA Pre-Manufacture Notices by the end of July. Also, the current progress on the RMP rule, and the additional scrutiny you suggested is very encouraging.

Again, thank you for a terrific meeting. I'm personally very much looking forward to working with EPA in this new environment.

Freedom: Art as the Messenger

Opening Reception

Thursday, April 11, 2019 • 6:30PM – 8:30PM

Cato Institute, 1000 Massachusetts Ave, NW Washington, DC 20001

DETAILS & REGISTRATION

Freedom means something different to every person, yet its value is a common bond between Americans. In these polarized times, Freedom: Art as the Messenger aims to provide a unifying platform of civility and creativity. Artists from across the country—in a wide range of media—share innovative and thought-provoking perspectives on freedom and the enduring need for its protection.

Join us and the artists to celebrate the opening of the Cato Institute's inaugural art exhibition. Prizes will be awarded for Best in Show, Second Place, and Third Place. Honorable mentions will also be recognized.

Curated by Harriet Lesser and June Linowitz.

Six Dancing Babies by Linda Lowery

For a preview of artworks visit cato.org/artmessenger.

This special event is free of charge.

To register to attend this event, click the button below and then submit the secure web form by 4:00PM EDT on Wednesday, April 10, 2019. If you have any questions pertaining to registration, you may e-mail events@cato.org.

Wendy, Jeff, Lynn:

On behalf of Dow, I wanted to thank your office and especially recognize the work of Karissa Kovner for help in resolving our issue with the China Minister of the Environment relating to the import of a chemical under the POPs Stockholm Convention. Karissa went above and beyond the call of duty, including many 8pm phone calls. Her expertise, collaboration, and coordination across government agencies was critically important for our company. Today, I am glad to report that this chemical is finally bound for the U.S.

Thank you for your commitment to your important mission, and for your willingness to work with our company to find common ground on issues like this. We greatly appreciate your work and the role that Karissa played.

Sincerely, Dennis

Dennis Deziel
